Tess' Community Farm Kitchen

Tess' Community Farm Kitchen, opening December 2014, is the creation of local Attorney Barbara Frantz. She wanted a place where the community can learn to cook with fresh, local sustainable produce, and make pies, pastries, jams, jellies, sauces, salad dressings and other goodies. The kitchen caters to the old and the young, the highly trained and the untrained. It is as much about making memories through cooking and sharing food, as it is about menus and techniques. Tess' is non-profit, and managed by professional staff who will enhance your appreciation of what you eat, of how to make the most of what you pick at a U-pick, and of how to make your own tasty treats using healthy sources. Volunteers will help reduce the cost of classes. Join the team and become part of the Agricultural legacy of this area. www.communityfarmkitchen.org, 800-800-5373.
